Euro Concepts Sydney is born from the passion for good food and wine of founder Roberto Dessanti. Australian born, Roberto has been strongly influenced by his Italian born parents and heritage. In the early years Roberto spent time in Italy to learn the secrets of good food and wine and also to study at the prestigious International School of Management in Trieste, where he successfully assisted Italian companies to export around the world. Taking this knowledge and passion, Roberto founded Euro Concepts Sydney six years ago.

Roberto now travels to Italy to source producers who represent their culture, heritage and their story in a bottle. Roberto believes that the personality of a wine should be linked to the country, the climate, to the care in the harvest and to the personal style of the wine maker.

BORTOLOMIOL
Veneto, ITALY

Documents dating back to the mid-18th century certify the existence of Bartolomeo Bortolomiol, the forebear from whom today’s family takes its name and whose trade it has plied for generations. His lessons were well learnt by Giuliano Bortolomiol, the founder of today’s sparkling wine company. He has always believed in the quality and future of designation of origin Prosecco to which he has dedicated his whole life. In turn, the founder’s daughters, Maria Elena, Elvira, Luisa and Giuliana have made this mission their own and have invested in ensuring product quality and maintaining the company’s strong links with the land and its history.

Bortolomiol is dedicated to uniting their commitment to honouring this important part of local history with a project for sustainable agriculture which will safeguard the rural heritage of the area for the future. This responsibility for their land and territories is exactly the reason why Bortolomiol has started its project for organic, sustainable and low-impact cultivation.
Think Sparkling

The Maiolini family have been in the area since 15th century and believe the family name was taken from the grape variety, and so today as it was then tied to the land. From 1981 to today the goal has been to increase the potential of the vineyards, protect and increase the value of the territory, and optimise the productive procedures.

In perfect harmony with the surrounding territory, Azienda Agricola Cà Maiol, founded in the 1960's, conveys a message of quality, dedication and passion for wine. In the heart of the Lugana territory, Fabio and Patrizia Contato produce traditional wine characterised by sophistication and natural balance.

The hand harvested grapes, soft pressing, controlled fermentation and refinement inside slightly-roasted French oak barrels are the natural stages of a production process that has remained unchanged in time and is deeply rooted in the history of the family.
The grapes for Dezzani wines are grown in their vineyards in Monferrato, Roero and Langhe Piemonte, Italy. Dezzani was established in 1934 by Romolo Dezzani and continues today under the guidance and dedication of Luigi Dezzani. Luigi’s philosophy focuses on four fundamental concepts: passion, tradition, quality, innovation. The result is 5 quality certifications making Dezzani one of the best certified wine companies in Italy.

A good wine is not only the outcome of passion and dedication to the vineyard, but is also the result of targeted technical innovation ensuring the wines reflect their origins. The personality of every wine is closely linked to its region, the climate, careful grape harvesting and the personal interpretation of the wine maker.

Poggio Ridente: ‘the Smiling Hill’ is the name of the vineyard on which thrive the vines Barbera, Albarossa and Bonarda. Located on the summit, 491 meters above sea level and because of its particular climatic conditions it is called the “Riviera del Monferrato”.

In all, the company has 20 hectares of which 9 hectares are vineyards, surrounded by woods and hedges, all over 450 meters above sea level. This biological chain of events leads us towards a horizon even more fascinating, the quest to be transformed into a biodynamic farm.

“In discussions between Luigi, our agronomist and I, we talk about how our family and company can intervene in the vineyard and winery. I look to my father, who has always upheld past traditions, and I am convinced that today the future is to seize that part of the past that, today has become so innovative. The use of traditional methods then, that are very similar to biodynamics, is an opportunity for this small company to offer an alternative from the bigger wine producers, and allows us to create a charming wine that is the direct expression of the earth from where it was born”. Damilano Wine Company is one of the oldest wineries in Barolo with historic traditions.

The Damilano family business dates back to 1890 when Giuseppe Borgogno, the great grandfather of the winery’s current owners, began to vinify his own estate wines. The town of Barolo resides in the generous and beautiful Langhe region, and its name was taken on by the “king of wines”.

The secret to high quality is found in the grapes destined to become Damilano wines. The grapes are cultivated in 53 hectares of prestigious and select vineyards that the company looks after with the same attention and respect as the winery’s founders, as well as the skills of modern winemaking in order to pursue the highest quality.
Castelli del Grevepesa, a Wine Co-operative was established in 1965 in Tuscany.

They concentrated on producing high quality wines by carefully selecting the grapes and by complying with the strict regulations.

Now with over 120 members whose common purpose is to preserve the centuries old traditions of Tuscan viticulture in the Chianti Classico region.

CAMPANIA, ITALY

The Aglianico is a very ancient kind of grapevine, introduced in Italy by Greek people. One of the historical evidence about this typical wine is a bronze coin, of IV century B.C, reproducing the rural deity Dionisio. A great classic of Irpinia’s vine viticulture, today it is considered one of the most important red wines in the national production.

Gooree's origins date back some 34 years when Filipino businessman Eduardo Cojuangco realised his agricultural dreams purchasing three historic local properties and a place to call home in Australia, with the agglomeration known as “Gooree Park” being formed.

As one of the district's most historic and picturesque properties, Gooree Park today has an enviable reputation as one of the country's leading thoroughbred breeding grounds and with the largest vineyard in the Mudgee region, more recently is gaining attention turning our passion for excellence to crafting the thoroughbred of wines.

Gooree's vineyards are nestled within Mudgee's picturesque rolling hills and benefit from fertile soil and an ideal climate for growing varietals such as Chardonnay, Shiraz and Cabernet Sauvignon.

Since their planting in 1996 we have nurtured them - from vine to bottle - just like we have done with the racehorses that have made us famous.

With some 545 ha of vines, Gooree Park has the capacity to produce an average if 6000 tonnes of grapes or 400,000 cases of wine per year.
